

QUARTERLY STATISTICAL HIGHLIGHT

Quarterly statistics on civil enforcement actions (2007-2019)

2nd Quarter 2019

The current report aims to portray the quarterly evolution of the civil enforcement actions, from 2007 to 2019.

Pending civil enforcement actions and clearance rate - Quarterly evolution¹

In the second quarter of 2019, the number of pending civil enforcement actions has decreased about 13.9% in view of the second quarter of 2018. On 31 March 2019, the number of pending civil enforcement actions was of 559.105 (table 1).

Table 1 - Pending civil enforcement actions, by quarter

The clearance rate², that measures the capacity of the system on a given moment to face the demand verified on that same moment, was of 112.1% in the second quarter of 2019. This resulted in a decrease in the pending at the end of this quarter. The second quarter of 2019 is the 19th consecutive quarter with a clearance rate above 100% (table 2).

Table 2 - Clearance rate of civil enforcement actions, by quarter

Pending civil enforcement actions, clearance rate and disposition time³ – Similar periods

Regarding the similar periods corresponding to the second quarters of the years 2007 to 2019, and notwithstanding the increase verified between the second quarter of 2007 and the second quarter of 2019, in the second quarter from 2013 to 2019 there was an accumulated decrease of 55.0% in the number of pending civil enforcement actions (decrease of 7.5% in 2013, 11.7% in 2014, 3.7% in 2015, 11.0% in 2016, 14.1% in 2017, 13.2% in 2018 and 13.9% in 2019), in view of the second quarter of 2012 (table 3).

Table 3 - Pending civil enforcement actions, 2nd quarter

The clearance rate was, in the second quarter of 2019, of 112.1%, an increase of 50.6% in view of the minimum value of 61.5% registered in the second quarter of 2010. Considering the previous similar periods, corresponding to the second quarter of each year under analysis, the value registered in the second quarter of 2019 is the seventh consecutive value of clearance rate above 100% (table 4).

Table 4 - Clearance rate of civil enforcement actions, 2nd quarter

The calculation of the disposition time in the second quarter of 2019 was affected by the unusually high number of completed cases in this quarter, as a result of internal transfers resulting from the application of Decree-Law 38/2019, of 18 March, which proceeds to a reorganization of the courts of first instance. (table 5).

Table 5 - Disposition time (in days) of civil enforcement actions in the 2nd quarter

New and completed civil enforcement actions and procedural balance – Similar periods

In the second quarter of 2019, the number of new and completed cases was unusually high, as a result of the application of that legal diploma, which proceeds to a reorganization of the courts of first instance. Nevertheless, in this quarter, the number of completed civil enforcement actions was considerably higher than the number of new civil enforcement actions⁴ (table 6). As a result, the procedural balance⁵ (table 7) in the second quarter of 2019 was quite favourable and amounted to 17,950 less cases. This balance justifies the decrease in the pendency, representing the seventh consecutive similar quarter with a positive evolution.

Table 7 - Procedural balance of completed civil enforcement actions, 2nd quarter percentage of older completed cases in those quarters. In view of the minimum value in the similar period of 2007, in the second quarter of 2019, the proportion of completed cases that had been waiting for completion for more than 5 years (60 months) increased by 13.9 percentage points. Its percentage of the total of cases increased from 22.0% in the second quarter of 2007 to 36.0% in the second quarter of 2019.

Table 8 - Average duration (in months) of completed civil enforcement actions in the 2nd quarter

Average duration⁶ of the completed civil enforcement actions – Similar periods

Regarding the average duration of the completed civil enforcement actions between the second quarter of 2007 and the second quarter of 2019, it is possible to verify that the value ranged between 38 and 53 months (table 8). In view of the second quarter of 2007, in the second quarter of 2019 there was an increase of 15 months in the average duration of the completed civil enforcement actions. Considering the similar period corresponding to the second quarter of 2018, in the second quarter of 2019 there was an increase of 3 months in the average duration of the completed civil enforcement actions. The increase in the average duration of the completed cases between the second quarter of 2007 and the second quarter of 2019 is accompanied by a considerable increase in the Civil enforcement actions pending at the courts of first instance (quarterly evolution)

Article 551, paragraph 5, of the Code of Civil Procedure, approved by Law 41/2013, of 26 June, provides that the enforcement proceedings run in court when the practice of an act of the jurisdiction of the secretary or of the judge is required or derives from the law and until its practice. Accordingly, the enforcement proceedings should not therefore be considered pending in court in other circumstances. From this point of view, the figures presented in this statistical highlight concern, for the time being, only the total amount of civil enforcement actions, including cases that are not waiting for the practice of any act by the court⁷.

¹ Pending cases correspond to cases that have not yet received the final decision in the form of judgment, sentence or order, in their respective instance, regardless of res judicata. These cases are thus awaiting the practice of acts or diligences by the court, the parties or other entities and may also, in certain types of cases, await for certain facts to occur or the expiration of a time. A suspended case is, for example, a pending case, irrespective of the cause of suspension. In particular, in the case of pending civil enforcement actions, in the legal model in force until 1 September 2013, when the new Code of Civil Procedure came into force, proceedings may not be awaiting the practice of acts by the court but rather waiting the practice of acts by external entities, public or private, as well as the practice of acts by enforcement agents. A pending case is not necessarily a case in delay, such as the case of those being handled within the legal timelines.

² The clearance rate is the total volume of the ratio of completed cases on the total volume of new cases. Being equal to 100% the volume of new cases was equal to the completed ones, then the variation of the pendency is zero. Being greater than 100%, there was a recovery in pendency. The higher this indicator the higher the recovery in the pendency in that year. If less than 100%, the volume of new cases was higher than the completed ones, generating pendency for the following year.

⁴ In the first quarters of 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018 and 2019 were registered, in the legal model in force until 1 September 2013, respectively, 71.503, 63.613, 132.646, 71.218, 98.553, 79.848, 66.614, 50.549, 52.523, 40.527, 41.789, 35.472 and 147.929 new civil enforcement actions and, also respectively, 70.524, 63.221, 111.277, 52.545, 60.641, 72.949, 128.005, 88.971, 66.353, 75.700, 65.006, 59.258 and 165.879 completed civil enforcement actions. However, from these totals, only 65.903, 62.059, 66.434, 69.745, 97.028, 76.590, 65.172, 48.451, 49.730, 37.082, 39.138, 33.122 and 28.873 new civil enforcement actions and 64.924, 61.667, 45.065, 51.072, 59.116, 69.691, 126.563, 86.873, 63.560, 72.255, 62.355, 56.908 and 46.823 completed civil enforcement actions correspond to actual movements of beginning and end of the cases. The remaining 5.600, 1.554, 66.212, 1.473, 1.525, 3.258, 1.442, 2.098, 2.793, 3.445, 2.651, 2.350 and 119.056 cases do not correspond to new civil actions in the courts or to civil actions that have been completed. This numbers of new and completed cases refer to the total of civil enforcement actions that were handled internally between organic units/courts. These are not, therefore, new cases that re-entered in the Portuguese courts but cases that were completed at the organic unit/court from where they left and that entered the organic units/courts to which they were transferred.

⁵ The procedural balance usually divulged, which corresponds to the difference between new and completed cases is not included in this statistical highlight due to a problem in the collection of the data that allows this indicator to be calculated. In any case, this does not significantly affect the remaining indicators of the current highlight.

⁶ The average duration of a completed case in the court is the period of time between the date of its beginning and the date in which the case was completed, even if it was redistributed, i.e., between the date of commencement of the case in the court where it entered and the date of completion of the case in this or in another court to which it was redistributed. The concept of average duration used in this statistical highlight corresponds to the also called duration of the initial case, by adding the duration in the various courts by where it passed.

⁷ Following the changes made to the system of the procedure in the courts of first instance to implement the aforementioned legal provision, in October 2017, work is underway to implement it within the framework of the official Justice statistics, including monitoring data quality. These works will allow us to portray, in this context, the evolution of civil enforcement actions in the courts of first instance.

Framing note – Time scope and other considerations

From 2007 onwards, the statistical data on cases at the courts of first instance are received through the courts' computer system and represents the state of the cases recorded in this system. New and completed cases include those transferred between organic units as a result of extinction and creation of new courts or court sections.
